

CALERA

2021 MT. HARLAN PINOT NOIR MILLS VINEYARD

96 POINTS

“A nervy, chalky, mineral-driven wine that’s unusual in California, gaining a distinctive profile from great acidity and a stony character. Made from tiny yields from vines growing on their own roots instead of being grafted onto rootstock, another reason that it’s a rarity. A smoky, flinty quality complements vivid red cherries, red tea and chalky, peppery flavors. Drinkable now, but best from 2029.”

“Deep and brooding aromas of lavender, lilac and purple fruit are cut by a kick of cedar on the nose of this bottling, which came from vines yielded less than a half-ton per acre. The palate is generous with red plum and cherry flavors that are enhanced by elegant floral tones and a lightly bitter finish. Prevalent tannins ensure graceful aging. Drink now-2041.”
