2019 RED MOUNTAIN WASHINGTON STATE CABERNET SAUVIGNON

“Just another success for this bottling. When Duckhorn first branched out into Washington, this was the initial offering, and it’s been good from the beginning. I imagine that the fruit sourcing has been fairly consistent, and the vines seem to add depth of character with each succeeding vintage. It is textbook Cabernet that hits all the markers, including the one that says ‘go ahead, age me a while – you won’t be sorry.’ Good advice.”

“Aromas of grated nutmeg, black and red currants and wild herbs. Full-bodied with firm tannins. Fresh acidity and ripe fruit create a pleasant dynamic on the palate. Well balanced. 84% cabernet sauvignon, 7% Merlot, 7% Malbec and 2% Petit Verdot.”

“The 2019 Cabernet Sauvignon Red Mountain is dark and understated in the glass, with nuances of black currant, dusty florals and menthol lifting from the glass. It’s silky-smooth and round on the palate, showing its minerality up front. Red berries and spice give way to grippy tannins. It leaves a staining of medicinal fruit concentration while tapering off lightly structured.”
