VINTAGE NOTES

The 2024 growing season in Paso Robles was marked by a balanced progression from winter through harvest, yielding wines of both structure and elegance. Winter brought moderate rainfall, replenishing soil moisture without excessive vigor. Budbreak occurred under mild spring conditions, followed by a long, even growing season with few heat spikes. Summer temperatures were warm but rarely extreme, allowing for steady phenolic development while preserving natural acidity. Harvest began at a measured pace in mid-September, extending through the end of October. The 2024 vintage is defined by purity of fruit and structural balance, with wines displaying vibrant aromatics, layered textures, and a clear expression of Paso Robles terroir.

WINEMAKING NOTES

This Paso Robles Cabernet Sauvignon captures the bold, sun-soaked energy of the region, opening with aromas of raspberry compote, baking spice, sarsaparilla, and olive tapenade. On the palate, blueberry and pomegranate lead, layered with bittersweet chocolate and structured tannins, with notes of vanilla and spice on the finish.
